SIMMONS HOTLY ATTACKS EVANS

Says Wizard 'Hid Out' in Probe of Murder

HINTS AT COMPLICITY

Johnston Claims He Has Received More Warnings

By United Press

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—A bitter attack on W. H. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, for "remaining in hiding" while investigation of the murder of W. S. Cohn was made today by William Joseph Simmons, founder of the organization.

"If I was imperial wizard," Simmons said, "I would be attempting to prove beyond any doubt whatever that I had no connection with the murder and that my associates nor myself in any way inspired this most dastardly deed, on the part of Fox, who is publicity director for Evans."

Simmons and Evans are leaders of rival factions within the Klan.

Cohn was attorney for the Simmons faction. Continuing, the Simmons statement said:

"I don't think Klansmen of the nation are going to much longer put up with an administration that meets crucial situations like this in such a cowardly manner."

"I cannot conceive and am powerless to surmise what the motive was behind this heinous crime."

Claims More Threats.

Simultaneously with the Simmons statement, Dr. Fred B. Johnston, personal friend of the Klan emperor, said that he had received many threats over the phone against his own life.

Instead of appearing to prosecute Evans faction following the murder, Johnston hurriedly fled to Birmingham where he stayed until today, returning with Simmons.

"I went to Birmingham when I received a reliable tip that certain parties had set out to kill Simmons," Johnston said. "I decided it was imperative that I go to Birmingham immediately and get the colonel home where he would have strong arm protection."

When I was 20 I was holding down three jobs at Houston, Louisiana. That was back in 1926, when cocktails sold at three for a quarter, but with my three jobs, I was too busy to notice that, except by way of passing. The three things I did was, first, to open oysters, brought in by the fleet of oyster luggers; and second, to carpentry work about four months out of the year that the oyster season was off; and third, I ran a bakery.

LIBERTY BALL ANNUAL EVENT

Legionnaires Plan First Affair For Saturday

Definite action to make a "Liberty Ball" an annual event in Port Arthur was taken by members of the Legionnaires last night at a meeting Wednesday night when plans were completed for the first of their Liberty balls to be given Saturday night at the Pleasure pier, post officials said today.

In the future the Legionnaires Liberty ball will be staged on Armistice day night, but because November 11 falls on Sunday this year, the function is arranged for Saturday night.

Legionnaires said. While it is not compulsory that those attending the dance wear their service uniforms, a number of the legionnaires will do so, and all ex-service men who will be urged to join their blues, O. D.'s and uniforms of the marine service Saturday night.

Not only ex-service men, but all who desire to attend the dance are invited, the event to form a part of the community celebrations of the Armistice day season. Patriotic decorations will be used in the pier dancing pavilion, and in every possible detail, according to the legionnaires. The dance is not a money-making proposition, the admission price of 81 a couple being fixed only to make expenses incidental to getting up the dance, post officials said.

Undermyer Flays Aged Hotelman's Attitude As 'Diabolical,' Leaving 'Trail of Slime.'

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Ideas such as evolved by this man can be considered only in the brain of a human fiend.

With this opening shot Samuel Undermyer, counsel for Helen Elwood Stokes, who is defending the suit of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes for divorce, resumed his summation of his case before Justice McLooney and a jury in the supreme court.

Heated Attack.

With frequent references to the character of the aged hotel man, and with more frequent mention of the class of witnesses employed by Stokes in his suit, Undermyer slowly, carefully laid bare before the jury every phase of the testimony which might aid the cause of his client.

In lengthy comparisons between the witnesses of the plaintiff and the defendant, he laid stress on admissions of wrong doing by the hotel man's witnesses.

"This man's attitude towards his wife," Undermyer continued, referring to Stokes, "is diabolical and abhorrent. He is vainly employing 'mental suggestion' to hold up his picky and dishonest case."

"Insanity" Generous Term.

He referred to Hattie Johnson, chief of Stokes' negro witnesses, as head of a "high class school for professional witnesses."

The aged millionaire, watching the end of his five year battle to divorce his wife with narrowing eyes, glared on Undermyer.

Mrs. Stokes' attention was divided between her counsel and the jury. She sat upright in her chair, never glancing at her husband.

Undermyer drew a picture of a young woman of gentle birth, hounded by an "evil genius," one whom it "would be generous to call insane, with an obsession to degrade, ruin and disgrace her, her children and family." They left, he said, a "stingy trail of perjury and corruption, unrequited in the history of the city or state."

Undermyer alluded to the testimony of Stokes' negro witnesses as "maneuvering and disgusting" and declared they were all post-graduates in perjury.

Smiles' Juvenile Songs

SMILES

Something in the cheery life of the music, as well as the mild sentimentality of the words, made "Smiles" a war-time favorite with the men in France no less than the folk at home. These same qualities have made the song a favorite among the enthusiastic favorites for community singing.

Among the A. E. F. the song was sung not only in its original form but with numerous variations.

Other Successes.

"Smiles" was written by J. Will Callahan and Lee S. Roberts, who have several popular song successes to their credit. Their history of the song exemplifies a method of exploitation that has more than once been found successful in the popular music field. Sometimes a small publisher issues a song which strikes one of the big publishers as having the elements of a popular hit.

The latter then buys the song outright for a sum which is frequently fairly large. The big publisher then exploits the song with all the varied

These are smiles that make us happy.
There are smiles that make us blue.
There are smiles that steal away the tear-drops.
As the sunbeams steal away the dew.
There are smiles that have a tender meaning.
That the eyes of love alone may see.
But the smiles that fill my life with sunshine
Are the smiles that you give to me.

means at his command. If his campaign is successful, he more than makes good on his investment. Some such process was that through which "Smiles" went on its road to popularity.

ROACHES LEG IN BOOZE CONVERTS WET ADDICT

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The hind leg of a cockroach floating in a bottle found on the person of Stanley Hurka, gave Stanley his freedom when arraigned in court for drunkenness.

"No wonder it had a leg," exclaimed the city prosecutor, holding the hooch aloft, and pointing to the disemboweled limb.

"I'll never drink again," exclaimed Hurka, in horror.

"All right, run along then," said the court.

FACES TWO CHARGES BEFORE CITY COURT

Troubles never come in single file. Charles Vance, charged on two warrants when arraigned in corporate court this morning was fined $13 and costs on a charge of intoxication, and was then locked up on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor. The latter charge is for federal disposition.

The Philippines have the last public holiday in the year. It is Rizal day, celebrated Dec. 30.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back is sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys, and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can really understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drinking lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Epsom Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Bad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no last time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pallen, Carpenter, 3333 Marcellus Avenue, Manhattan, N. Y. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv.

CROWDS GROW AT REVIVALS

Baptists Have Good Attendance at Tent

Increasing crowds attending the tent revival services in Gilham Circle, are reported by ministers of the three Baptist churches of Port Arthur, under whose auspices the meeting is being conducted.

Rev. H. G. Brown, missionary of the Southeast Texas association, is preaching the sermons each night, his part of the program being preceded by a 40 minute musical program, under the direction of Prof. Reems who conducts an orchestra of stringed and wind instruments and six pianos assembled for the meeting. In addition to a large chorus from the choir of the three Baptist churches of the city.

The sermon Wednesday night was on God's concern for a lost soul. Rev. Brown stressing three reasons for God's concern for the salvation of souls, these reasons being, first, because of the priceless value of the soul; second, because of the soul's fearful power; and third, because of the soul's great guilt.

While a definite closing date for the meeting has not been set, it has been decided to continue at least through Sunday night, and probably until one day next week. Saviour has been spread over the ground under the tent, and a number of oil stoves make it comfortable for the congregations, the ministers said.

Awfully Nice.

MRS. PLUMP: Well, all I've got to say is, if we do have another war, I hope it is with France. You know the French are so polite.—Exchange.

Officers Find Man Sought in Arrest Is Dead

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 3.—Deputy Sheriff Tiffan and Bennelly today served a warrant charging trespassing on the Lake Bluff farm of Arthur Meeker, Chicago picker, or dead man. When Kessler failed to appear, the deputies obtained a warrant for his arrest. When they appeared and asked for Leo Kessler's wife began weeping. In the room she indicated they found Kessler dead. He apparently had died of heart disease a half hour before they came.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system, the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the acid which causes rheumatism.

Color Cut-outs

The Cur of Russia

Billie cut-out was the "explainer" at the cut-out columnar poultry show. New opening in fancy birds, he announced to the group of school children he was talking around. "The Cur of Russia has won as many medals as the monarch for whom he was named. At present he is a little lazier for he was in an altercation (that means a fight) with the turkey soldier to the end of the row. He parts his gorgeous head feathers in the middle, and he is able to crow exactly on the hour by the watch in his waistcoat pocket."

Coloring the Cur is a test of your art ability. Make his feet and beak yellow and his wattles red, leaving the shaggy comb white. His breast is bluish gray blending into black and green on the back and tail. His waistcoat is orange, his tie purple. Look for trouble tomorrow in the "cut-out show!"

In Dayton, Library Comes to Your Front Door

DAYTON'S "TRAVELING LIBRARY"

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 8.—If you can't bring the people to the library, take the library to the people.

This is the idea behind Dayton's newest innovation, a library on wheels. Officials at the Dayton Public Library wanted to extend the service and get more books before the public. They didn't have money enough to build new branches, so they hit upon the idea of a circulating library in a truck.

It is equipped with 600 volumes of selected fiction and carried 101 current magazines. You get your library card from one of the young women who accompany the truck and you draw the books you want. The only charge is the customary fine for keeping a book too long.

Goes Everywhere.

The itinerant library goes over a different route each day and assistant librarians go over the same route once a week in order that the reading public may become acquainted with them.

After the first week's operation, sponsors of the idea declared a long-felt need had been supplied and the library on wheels was a success. Hundreds of persons who never before had a library card are now duly enrolled as readers.

The trips of the book truck had no preliminary announcement and took an unsuspecting public by surprise, but the unsuspecting public rose to the occasion and asked for books by the score.

Miss Elvora C. Doran, chief librarian, says it is "surprising but true" that people who have not been inside a library for years choose good books.

"The frivolous kind," she says, "are not in great demand." Books which make a person think are the ones that are most wanted.

BEAUTIFUL SCENE

One of the most beautiful scenes ever screened was filmed as a part of "Enemies of Women" from the famous story by Barz, author of "The Four Horsemen." It is the interior of the Russian palace of Prince Lubimoff, the chief character in the story, impersonated by Lionel Barrymore, coming to a wild revel just prior to the revolution in Petrograd. This set shown from many angles, may be seen in "Enemies of Women" at the Peoples theatre.

OMAR, THE TENTMAKER

One of the most beautiful of the younger leading women of the screen, Virginia Brown Frame, recently had the rather unusual experience of playing a middle-aged mother. This was in Richard Walton, Tully's screen version of the novel "The Tentmaker," in which Miss Frame plays Shireen, the sweetheart of Omar Khayyam portrayed by Guy Bates Post.

A frantic search failed to reveal the precious roll. Just the other day a check for $50 came to Joseph from a village in Minnesota. The sender explained he had taken the $50 roll a couple of years ago and was conscious of it since.

KLAN SILENT ON KIMBRO CHARGES

Had Charged Houston Men With Floggings

HOUSTON, Nov. 8.—Officials of the Sam Houston klan number 1, today refused to comment on the deposition by George B. Kimbro, Jr., former grand potent of the order last year, in which it was declared the klan had participated in several "whipping parties" in this section.

"We have nothing to say regarding Mr. Kimbro's charges," L. A. Hartwig, kligran of the local klan, told the United Press today.

"We have not officially taken any action or even conferred on the matter. I can't say yet whether we will do anything at all regarding it," he said.

Kimbro's deposition, made for use in damage suits filed against him by the klan and against the klan by him, mentioned several specific instances in which the klan is alleged to have participated in floggings.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say.

One day Nance and Nick came up on two funny little lizards in Dixie Land. One was called Sally Salamander and the other was called Charlie Chameleon and they looked almost exactly alike. Only Charlie could turn almost any color he wanted to (except pink or sky-blue or lilac), and Sally couldn't. She had to stay an ugly yellow with black shoe-button spots all over her, and she got tired of having only one dress. "Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say. "There's nothing to it at all," answered Charlie. "All you've gotta do is just wish. See?" And he turned from a beautiful sea-green to a lovely tomatored. "Almost did change color at that. She almost turned green with envy. "I'll give you a lesson," said Charlie generously. "Try to turn the color of whatever you happen to be on. It's a good way to learn to hide if you're in danger. Now we're on brown earth so try to turn brown. Like me!" And the little chameleon turned to a lovely mud color. "Now close your eyes and wish," he said. "I'll try! I'll try!" said poor Sally obediently. So she closed her eyes and wished—hard—she thought she would burst. But also! When she opened her eyes again she was still the same ugly old yellow color she had always been. "That's not the way!" scolded Charlie. "Mister Moccasin snake could see you with his eyes shut, and so could Mister Pelican and Mister Duck and everybody. Maybe you can turn red better. But like the wolf in the pizzy story, 'for all her huffing and for all her puffing,' Sally stayed yellow, and 'her spots would not go in.' Suddenly the Twins heard a flapping of wings, and there stood Mister Wild Duck. Like a yellow streak, Sally Salamander flapped into the water and swam away. But poor Charlie! He couldn't swim and had to stay where he was. He turned every color he knew how, but it was too late. Mister Duck had seen him. "Say, Sally," called Nick. "Some people know some things and other people know other things. Everybody can't know everything. You ought to be satisfied to know how to swim." And he shoed Mister Duck away and saved Charlie. (To Be Continued.)

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle Ray

Chapter 28 Pressing Stone With Bone

Most of the time during the Stone Age people chipped stones by pounding them with other stones. This way of making tools is shown in the upper part of the illustration. Among the tools made in such a manner were stone knives, axes, borers, scrapers, and hammers. Hundreds of thousands of these have been found beneath cave floors in Europe, Asia and northern Africa. As thousands upon thousands of years passed, men slowly learned to chip their tools better and better. Some splendid results were obtained in those golden times. Men pounded away on stones—usually flint—and lo! the stones were made into good tools and good weapons. Then came a time when people in Europe did not chip stones so well.

Perhaps the race was becoming rather "born out."

From time to time, however, tribes from northern Africa and Asia made their way to Europe and refreshed the human stock. Among these tribes were people who learned a better way to chip stones.

Notice the lower part of the illustration. It shows how men who lived in the latter part of the Stone Age made their tools. A piece of bone in one hand is to be seen pressing against a stone in the other hand. Trials by scientists have proved the splendid results which can be obtained by this method. Much finer tools and weapons than ever before were made by Stone Age men after this discovery.

Another important step taken at this time was the cutting of bone to make it better suited to man's use. Among the things made from bone were awls, knives, pins, chisels, wedges, and harpoons.

The last was a barbed instrument used for catching fish. It will be described in detail when we come to our chapter on Early Fishermen.

Next: Giving Faces to Skulls (Copyright John P. Dille Co.)

Penning and pressing—these were the two methods early men used to chip stones. Penning came later.

Youth Shoots Himself To Win Kiss From Girl

MARION CITY, Ia., Nov. 3.—Roy P. Pfleger, 24, had to shoot himself to win a kiss from Coila Phillips, 16, a pretty blonde, after his attentions had been repeatedly spurned. He waited in his automobile in front of the Phillips home until she returned from a dance with another boy.

"I'm going to shoot myself if you don't kiss me," he told her after his rival had left.

Coila brushed him and went on into the house. A shot was heard and she ran to his side. He had a wound in his side.

"Won't you kiss me now?" he pleaded as police carried him into the house for first aid treatment. The girl bent over and pressed her lips to his.
